

The Economy of Kindness:

How Kindness Transforms Your Bottom Line

Every investment in Kindness is transformational for individuals, teams, and businesses.

Imagine your workplace filled with people who are respectful, committed, empowered, and energized. This is what kindness does.

In this highly interactive event, Linda Cohen trains employees and leaders on how to improve communication, boost teamwork, promote interpersonal interaction, and provide stellar customer service through engagement and focus by cultivating a stronger culture of kindness.

Participants will learn why kindness is so crucial in a business setting and the impact our individual actions have on the bottom line of our organizations. Kindness in the workplace improves employee morale, elevates customer service, and creates loyalty from customers.

The size of the kindness action doesn't matter. Kindness has a ripple effect that stretches out to transform mediocre to magnificent.

Learn How:

- A culture of kindness makes Reputation, Retention, and Recruitment easier to maintain.
- Intentional acts of kindness improve relationships and build stronger face to face and virtual teams.
- Kindness practices build stronger strategic alliances.

Perfect for Business Owners, Managers, and All Staff Events

Reimagine Kindness:

Lessons for a Virtual New World

Reimagine Kindness will push our businesses and lives forward to a renewed post-pandemic world.

Our roadmap completely changed in March 2020 now we need to navigate almost unknown territory, and our compass will be kindness.

Linda Cohen will show how employing the key kindness strategies of Adaptability, Communication, Recognition, and Self Care will engage and empower your employees while positively impacting your bottom line.

Part Inspiration. Part Education. Participants take away a new perspective of the active role kindness plays in their professional and personal lives. They'll have fresh ideas and kind resources to implement immediately!

Kindness in the workplace improves employee morale, elevates workplace culture, and creates loyalty from clients and co-workers

Learn How:

- Minimal investments in kindness practices can have huge returns.
- Everyone can be a Kindness Catalyst.
- A company culture of kindness creates more loyal and happier employees and clients.

Perfect for General Audience, Professional Development Events, and Healthcare Professionals

Be the Best KIND of Leader!:

Uplift Your Middle Managers

Authentic leadership offers kindness through recognition, respect, and communication.

Kindness conquers burnout, builds morale, and empowers employees especially when delivered by leadership.

Our workplaces are under pressure from many different sources. Your employees need to know that they are valued and respected so that they can perform their best. Linda Cohen will show your company leaders how to deliver that message of kindness and recognition.

By participating in this seminar leaders will become more engaged and productive, feel empowered, and have the tools to immediately implement a stronger and more dynamic workplace culture of kindness.

Kindness practices attract and retain high performing leaders and build stronger organizations. Kind leaders improve team performance, company morale, and the bottom line.

Learn How:

- Leaders can build their own kindness strategies.
- Kindness improves company morale and deepens employee loyalty.
- A culture of kindness builds stronger strategic alliances, collaboration, and employee engagement.

Perfect for Executive Leadership, Middle Managers, and Emerging Leaders

Dialogue with Kindness:

Sustaining Healthy Discussion in a Polarized Society

Kindness imbues a calm confidence in the workplace allowing everyone to flourish.

Kindness is self-generating and powerful. Kindness and conversation can close cultural and personal rifts, which leads to understanding, inclusivity, and success.

During this intense event, Linda Cohen will dive into communication accountability, the keys to giving and receiving feedback, employing active listening, and vulnerability through connection. Inclusivity is the kind way to create a company culture, and it also makes good business sense.

Linda Cohen presents kindness solutions that begin to build interpersonal bridges by creating opportunities to dialogue and so embrace each other's differences. Participants will elevate their listening skills to find common ground and respectful understanding.

Kindness provides a return to civility, supports inclusivity, allows new ideas to be heard, and ensures that all voices are heard and respected.

Learn How:

- Non-verbal cues tell the truth of your story.
- The 4 Quadrants of Communication are acts of kindness.
- Successful corporations and individuals use kindness to create healthy dialogue.

Perfect for All Staff, Middle Managers, and Women in Leadership

Cultivating Kindness:

Building Stronger Relationships in the Workplace

Empower your workforce to confidently navigate change, alleviate burnout, and transform patient lives with Kindness.

Our roadmap completely changed in March 2020 now we need to navigate almost unknown territory, and our compass will be kindness.

Kindness practices attract and retain high-performing talent and build stronger organizations. Kindness in the workplace is a vital part of delivering high-quality patient care.

Participants will learn why kindness is so crucial in healthcare and the impact our individual actions have on the bottom line of our organizations. Linda Cohen will show how employing the key kindness strategies of Adaptability, Communication, Recognition, and Self-Care will engage and empower your employees while positively impacting your bottom line.

Kindness and conversation can close cultural and personal rifts, which leads to understanding, inclusivity, and success.

Learn How:

- Successful organizations use Kindness practices to strengthen employee relationships and stimulate healthy dialogue.
- Kindness improves company morale and deepens employee loyalty.
- A company culture of kindness elevates the patient experience and creates higher patient satisfaction.

Perfect for General Audiences, Professional Development Events, and Healthcare Professionals